

like

Be specific in your writing and do not use the word like all the time. If you can, use words that describe more clearly how you are feeling.

These words show how much you really like a person, or something such as a pet:

admire
care for
be fond of

If you want to show that you like them very much indeed, you could use the words

adore
cherish
hold dear

These words show how much you really like something or like doing something:

appreciate
enjoy
be keen on delight in

Over to you

In this piece of writing, could you use some better words instead of like?

I like my dad, and he likes to cook us food that we like for dinner. After dinner I like taking my dog out for a walk. She is called Breeze, and I like her very much.
